

Development Geologist

The Canada-Newfoundland and Labrador Offshore Petroleum Board (C-NLOPB) is the independent regulator of offshore oil and gas activity off the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador, on behalf of the federal and provincial governments. Created in 1986 through the Atlantic Accord and its implementing legislation, the C-NLOPB provides regulatory oversight of operator activities in the areas of health and safety, environmental protection, resource management and Canada-Newfoundland and Labrador benefits. The C-NLOPB invites applications for the position of Development Geologist.

The Development Geologist will be a member of the Resource Management Department. Reporting to the Geoscience Lead, this position will:

- Build 3D reservoir models and estimate hydrocarbon volumes in place
- Participate in assessment of development plans and other submissions from operators
- Conduct geological studies of oil and gas fields, including review of regional geology, well test data, cores, logs, seismic, and other geologic data
- Administer regulations and guidelines for drilling and production related approvals and authorizations; monitor operator activities for compliance with approvals; and communicate with operators with respect to compliance
- Participate in drafting and review of policies, guidance and other regulatory instruments
- Provide geological advice and support to other staff
- Contribute to writing and editing technical reports
- Other related duties assigned as required

Qualified applicants have at least three years experience in the oil and gas industry and possess a bachelor's degree or higher in geology or geophysics. The ideal candidate has a strong understanding of well log data and sedimentary geology, with an overall focus on reservoir modelling. Eligibility for registration with the Professional Engineers and Geoscientists of Newfoundland and Labrador (PEGNL) is required. Experience with Petrel software and seismic interpretation would be assets.

Interested persons may submit an application by October 22, 2021 to:
