NEWFOUNDIAND AND LABRADOR Fechnical Advisory Group (TAG) Session: Indigenous Knowledge Engagement Activity / Meeting Notes Date Finalized: December 23, 2019 Date and Time / Tuesday, November 5, 2019 Date and Time / Location Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL Participants (External) Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK Study completed for Nunatsiavut Government to Startec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment to Startec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 0. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to ot	REGIONAL ASSESSMENT OF OFFSHORE OIL AND GAS EXPLORATORY DRILLING EAST OF
Engagement Activity / Meeting Notes Date Finalized: December 23, 2019 Date and Time / Duration Tuesday, November 5, 2019 Duration Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL Location Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL Participants (External) In-person: Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. In uit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK	NEWFOUNDLAND AND LABRADOR
Date and Time / Duration Tuesday, November 5, 2019 Duration 11:00 a.m 1:00 p.m. AST Location Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL Participants (External) In-person: Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans S. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Iniut are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Pr	Technical Advisory Group (TAG) Session: Indigenous Knowledge
Date and Time / Duration Tuesday, November 5, 2019 11:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. AST Location Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL Participants (External) In-person: Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Verginal Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on amap) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CScAs c	Engagement Activity / Meeting Notes
Date and Time / Duration Tuesday, November 5, 2019 11:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. AST Location Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL Participants (External) In-person: Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Verginal Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on amap) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CScAs c	Date Finalized: D	December 23, 2019
Location Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL Participants (External) In-person: Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9.<	Date and Time /
Participants (External) In-person: Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans S. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds 10. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that	Duration	11:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. AST
Participants (External) Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Virginia Crawford Considerations: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds 10. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are criticial to Indigenous groups.	Location	Atsanik Lodge, Nain, NL
(External) Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Virginia Crawford Considerations: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: Impact Assessment Agency of Considerations: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Impact Assessment Study Area Vertex on Strategic Environmental Assessment to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans S. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary		In-person:
Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: Considerations: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: Considerations: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Impact States/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate South IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: A. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans Environment S. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: S. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds O. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are c	Participants	Jim Goudie, Nunatsiavut Government
Participants (Internal) Committee Members: Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Regional Assessment Task Team: Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans S. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds 10. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are critical to Indigenous groups. 11. Ice data which because of scale would not be applicable for localized drilling operations 12. The Regional Assessment being updated Follow-up/ Action Item	(External)	Claude Sheppard, Nunatsiavut Government
Participants (Internal) Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Impact Assessment Agency of Canada Virginia Crawford Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds 10. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are critical to Indigenous groups. 11. Ice data which because of scale would not be applicable for localized drilling operations 12. The Regional Assessment being updated Follow-up / Action Items 1. VC to send notes of IK summ		Rodd Laing, Nunatsiavut Government
(Internal) Wes Foote Gerald Anderson Impact Assessment Agency of Candad Virginia Crawford Impact Assessment Agency of Candad Gerald Anderson Virginia Crawford Impact Assessment Agency of Candad Gerald Anderson Virginia Crawford Impact Assessment Agency of Candad Virginia Crawford Virginia Crawford Impact Assessment Study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment Impact Assessment Study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment Impact Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: S. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds 10. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are critical to Indigenous groups. <	Particinants
Key Considerations: 1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: 4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups 6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds 10. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are critical to Indigenous groups. 11. Le data which because of scale would not be applicable for localized drilling operations 12. The Regional Assessment being updated Follow-up / 1. VC to send notes of IK summaries to NG (sent Dec 23 2019)	•
Key Messages/Issues Raised1. Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment 2. Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate 3. Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available.Key Messages/Issues Raised4. Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans 5. Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups6. Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. 7. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: 8. CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK 9. Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds 10. Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are critical to Indigenous groups. 11. Ice data which because of scale would not be applicable for localized drilling operations 12. The Regional Assessment being updatedFollow-up / Action Items1. VC to send notes of IK summaries to NG (sent Dec 23 2019)	(internal)	Gerald Anderson	Virginia Crawford
Follow-up / Action Items1. VC to send notes of IK summaries to NG (sent Dec 23 2019)	Messages/Issues	 Qualitative Analysis of IK study completed for Nunatsiavut Government and sent to Stantec/C-NLOPB as part of the Labrador Strategic Environmental Assessment Traditional Knowledge and science are not separate Both IK as data (lines on a map) and IK as experience (interviews) collected in NG. If Regional Assessment Study Area were closer to NG territory, there would be a lot of relevant IK available. Concerns: Impacts to migratory birds, salmon and cetaceans Resources and capacity an issue with respect to participating in Impact Assessment processes. Established timelines will not work unless discussed with Indigenous groups Inuit are the only people in the region who eat whales so any disruption would be a problem. Lack of understanding of migration paths of beluga and narwhal whales are a concern. References used in assessments refer to other assessments rather than science. Areas of Interest: CSAS co-written on topic of science and IK Precautionary principle being tied to thresholds Opportunity to build in triggers for areas where there are data gaps and that are critical to Indigenous groups. Ice data which because of scale would not be applicable for localized drilling operations
Action Items	Follow-up /
Prepared By: Virginia Crawford	•
	Prepared By:	Virginia Crawford		